Mother's Day and Father's Day Fun Ideas

Here are some fun ideas for Mother's Day that the whole family will enjoy and that will definitely bring a smile to her face!

- Have a Picnic

This year, instead of having your Mother's Day dinner at home, why not take it outdoors? You can have a great picnic anywhere, even in your own yard! All you need is a great menu and a prime picnic spot, such as a local park. Great options to pack in your picnic basket include sandwiches, salad, and plenty of lemonade.

- Attend a Performance

Taking your mother to a performance is also something that would make for a nice Mother's Day outing. Chances are, your mother is probably too busy to go to a play or a concert. Mother's Day is the perfect time to treat her! Find out if she has a desire to see anything that is happening locally, and then surprise her with tickets. You can even treat her to a nice dinner, too.

- Give Her a Break

Most moms are completely overworked. They spend their time cooking, cleaning, and making sure that the household runs smoothly. We're often too busy to notice all her hard work. This Mother's Day, why not give her the day off? You can spend the whole day doing her chores. Things like preparing several days worth of meals, thoroughly cleaning the house, and running a few of her errands will go a long way to helping her feel appreciated and loved.

Here are some fun ideas for Father's Day that the whole family will enjoy.

- ◆ America's favorite pastime is always a crowd pleaser. If attending a pro baseball game isn't an option, find a local minor league or community softball game to take in.
- ◆ Bowling is right up Dad's alley—especially if Father's Day is rainy this year. Opt for bumper bowling to give little ones an advantage.
- ◆ Casting a line with the kids is a classic, relaxing way to spend Dad's special day. Children's fishing poles cost as little as $12 and are sure to create cute memories.

We Are Learning From The World Around Us

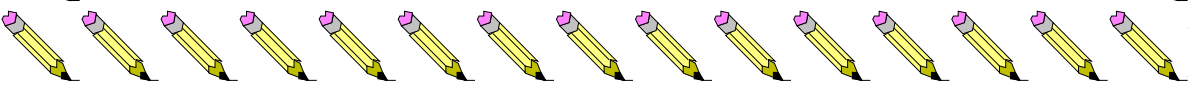

Your child will be introduced to some or all of the following topics through a variety of formats, including discussions, individual/group activities and projects, songs, story books, finger plays, pictures, field trips, special guests, technology, and outdoor experiences based on his/her development and interests. We encourage families to see the teacher's lesson plans posted in each classroom for more details.

Mother's Day and Father's Day Fun Ideas (contd.)

- ◆ Dad would probably love nothing more than a game of catch or some other favorite backyard game with the kids. Follow it up with a low-key family barbeque.
- ◆ Order or make Dad's favorite pizza and turn on a family-friendly flick that he'll love. It's a perfect ending to a fantastic Father's Day!
